Lindenhurst thinking green

Village to discuss future of Village Green at forum

By HELEN MANSFIELD

hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

LINDENHURST—The Lindenhurst Village Board passed several annexation and re-zoning ordinances in March to support Lindenhurst Village Green development.

Since then, items surrounding the residential and retail development have come up before the Village Board, but the whole project might have left some residents asking "what's the latest?"

To answer some of the residents' questions, Lindenhurst is hosting a public forum at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church's education center, at 1822 East Grand Ave.

Representatives from the village, along with retail builder OliverMcMillan, and residential builder O'Leary/Swanson, will be available to talk to residents.

Village Administrator Jim Stevens said residents haven't seen a lot going on at the northwest corner of Routes 132 and 45, where the 190-acre development will be, because a lot of the discussion has been going on behind the scenes.

"They have questions about the plan," Stevens said. "And they wonder why it looks like nothing's happening."

Stevens said the plan has been refined since it was first introduced roughly nine months ago. He describes the plan as "significant for the area, not just Lindenhurst."

"The village approved a concept," he said of the beginning stages of the development.

As time goes on, Stevens said the village and developers will work on specifics such as architecture, landscaping, and construction materials.

Stevens said, the retail portion of Village Green could have up to three anchor tenants. He said there has been no change in the number of residential units, which could be between 700 and 800.

Mansie O'Leary, vice president of marketing and spokeswoman for The O'Leary Companies, said both builders have "adhered to the wishes of the Village with respect to residential."

Stevens said there might be another forum some time down the road.

"That is, the residential will follow the retail development," she said. "Once the retail plans are finalized then the residential land partnership will really begin to firm up their designs and plans."

The retail portion will consist of roughly 640,000 square feet of retail space, and the single-family homes will be built on 190 acres.

Robert Rychlicki, executive vice president of Kane, McKenna, and Associates, said the mixed-use development will cost roughly $34.5 million.

Lake County Journals always look to improve

Last week I wrote about some of the awards the Journals have won recently.

I also noted that those awards only meant that we were going to work harder to maintain a high quality local paper.

That is evident in our Sports section, which was recognized with a first-place honor by the recently Northern Illinois Newspaper Association.

Despite that recognition, we think we can still do better.

So, we have put together a plan to make several changes to the section that are being implemented starting this week.

While you will still be able to find results and descriptions from all the games involving your favorite local prep teams, the section will also offer more of a magazine feel.

The front page of Sports will now offer feature stories profiling not only the most talented, but most interesting individuals involved in the games being played at high schools throughout Lake County. Other features might be issue driven, addressing the most discussed or most argued topics related to local sports.

And it doesn't stop there.

The section is going to strive to look forward to the most important upcoming games and events in the area so that readers are well-informed on what to anticipate heading into the weekend.

Scores and results from those events will be updated throughout the week on our Web site, LakeCountyJournals.com.

Also on the Web site starting this week is a blog by Sports Editor Dan Patrick, who will muse on the local sports scene, key players and trends or whatever else is on his mind.

That feature will be updated three times a week, so make sure to check into our Web site frequently.

Have more ideas on how we can improve the Sports section, or any other part of the paper? E-mail me at mpera@nwnewsgroup.com.

Thanks for reading the Journals.

Olive Martin second-graders enjoy Stanley's great adventures

LAKE VILLA – Literary character Flat Stanley recently took off on a world-wind adventure, leaving from various second-grade classrooms at Martin Elementary School for parts unknown.

The character Flat Stanley comes from the children's book of the same name by Jeff Brown. The book was published in 1964, but in the years since, Stanley has become a cult phenomenon.

The story centers on Stanley Lambchop, who is accidentally flattened when a bulletin board falls on him. He survives, and makes the best of his altered state. He can now slide under closed doors. The major advantage to being flat? Stanley can now visit his friends by being mailed in an envelope.

Student Abby Gut said the students all read the book, and created their own Flat Stanley. Hers went to Michigan to visit family. Whoever received Flat Stanley had to put him up, and entertain him.

They were to photograph his activities, write an account of what he did, then mail him back to his or her creator.

Trey Butte's Stanley went to visit

Florida. He got to go golfing. Kaitlyn Hall had photos of her Stanley bobbing along on a pool float.

Lexie Glunz sent her Stanley to visit her uncle Brad, who is a Marine. She wasn't certain where Stanley ended up, saying that the location was "top secret."

Morgan Padilla's Stanley went to visit her cousin in Tennessee; Rane Victoria's got sent back with melted lipstick all over his face. He apparently had a good time visiting in the Philippines.

Sami Miller had photos of Stanley baking cookies, and Nolan Unger's got to visit Colonial Williamsburg.

"My Stanley was on a lawn mower and he visited with my grandparents' Chihuahua," said John Peter Konrad.

'Villagers' dance with the stars

In a competition based on the popular television show "Dancing with the Stars," seven students from College of Lake County recently teamed up with seven residents of The Village at Victory Lakes to participate in a ballroom dancing competition.

Judges consisted of a retired Rockette and current Victory Lakes resident Dorthe Mae Brumund.

Warren Behr and Victory Lakes associate Katie Riojas came in first; second place went to resident Blanca Gonzalez and associate Jimmy Majerowicz; and third place went to resident Paul Bartolain and associate Alice Bednar.

Congratulations to the winners and all who participated.

Twenty-one students at Lakes Community High School have earned the designation of AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of the exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Program Exams that they took last May.

Mary Kenner, Heather Pease, and Amanda Warren were named Scholar with Distinction with a 3.5 or higher.

Nathaniel Bashaw, Katherine Old, Ashley Roper, and Benjamin Safron were named Scholar with Honor with a 3.25 or higher.

Nathan Davide, Kathleen English, Mary Gliva, Andrew Jones, Ryan Kelley, Ian Lutz, Christina Mazulis, Christine Okamoto, Hannah Okamoto, William Quade, Chasity Stipetic, Autumn Talley, Mark Turenne, and Hua Xiao were named Scholar for a 3.0 or higher. Way to go one and all.

Roadwork has made for bumpy business

Completion of some projects near

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - Driving around downtown Antioch has been a bumpy prospect for the last several months, but the end soon will be near for a few projects.

Jim Keim, director of physical services and acting village administrator, said that if the forecasted snow flurries hold off, the paving and storm sewer improvements on Lake Street should be finished by the end of the week.

"We're in the final stage of laying the asphalt," Keim said.

He said the village also had a number of tax increment district projects, including a deck project on the east part of Main Street. Keim said the multi-tiered deck provided a concession and gathering place for visitors on Main Street, allowing them to rest, enjoy lunch, or just take in the sights of downtown Antioch.

Keim said a number of downtown parking lots were repaved as well. A warming shelter/restroom will be built along the east side of Main Street.

"All of these projects are on schedule. We've stuck to the budget and we've worked with our cost estimates," Keim said.

Like any roadway project, Keim said there have been complaints, but the village has worked to create relatively minor impact on the downtown, and minimal impact on business owners.

"I think everyone will be happy with the final result," he said.

Villages prepare to honor veterans

Area Veterans of Foreign Wars Post hosting most of the ceremonies

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

GURNEE - With Veterans Day falling on a Sunday this year, some villages and organizations are moving ceremonies to the Monday after the holiday.

Though most students will have class Monday, Nov. 12, the U.S. Postal Service will not deliver mail. Other government buildings will be closed as well.

Gurnee American Legion Post 771, at 791 Milwaukee Ave., will host a Veterans Day dinner on Friday, Nov. 9. Cocktails will begin at 6 p.m., with dinner at 7 p.m. Cost is $14 a person. For information, call the Gurnee American Legion Post 771 at 847-244-9282.

In Lindenhurst, Veterans Day ceremonies will take place at 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 11, at the Lindenhurst Veterans Memorial. The memorial is at the entrance of the Lindenhurst Village Hall, 2301 E. Sand Lake Road.

The ceremonies will include the U.S. Army Color Guard, the Lakes High School band, Lindenhurst Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4894, and Lindenhurst Village Board President Susan Lahr. The keynote speaker will be Lt. Col. David Sears, a Lindenhurst resident and commander of a U.S. Army Recruiting Battalion.

For information, call Paul Baumunk, chairman of the Lindenhurst Veterans Memorial Commission, at 847-256-2838.

The Antioch VFW, at 75 North Ave., will host a Veterans Day ceremony, starting at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 11. Free hot dogs will be served after the ceremony, while supplies last.

For information, call the Antioch VFW Post 4551 at 847-395-5393.

The Lake Villa VFW Post 4308, at 103 E. Grand Ave., will host an informal event at 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 11.

The Route 173 name game

Board supports renaming road after 173rd Airborne

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - Bob "Ragman" Getz is on a mission. He has been working his way along Illinois Route 173 trying to get villages from Rockford to Antioch to rename its stretch of highway to the "173rd Airborne Brigade Highway."

A resident of Elgin, Getz served in the 173rd during Vietnam. He also serves as the secretary for the for the 173rd's Chapter Six. The 173rd Brigade is a combat paratroopers group that jumps from planes.

At the Oct. 15 board meeting, the Antioch Village Board was the second to pass the resolution. Getz said Harvard was first, and he is in discussions with the villages of Rockford, Spring Grove, Hebron, Zion, Richmond, and Popular Grove.

He said all the villages have been receptive to the change, but said "getting on the agenda is tough."

Getz said many former 173rd members keep up with those active in the group.

"We're a tight group," he said. "Many of those serving are the age of our own kids."

He said some former 173rd members have children in the unit.

The Airborne Brigade has a long and colorful history. Getz said the Brigade was activated in 1917 and was deployed to France during World War I.

Getz said each village can pass a resolution renaming the portions of Route 173 that run through its community. After that, he's going to call in the "bigger guns."

Once Getz gets five or six villages to approve the ordinance, he plans to get the help of Lt. Governor Pat Quinn and Secretary of State Jesse White, who Getz's hopes, will designate the entire state highway the "173rd Airborne Brigade Highway."

Wisconsin's first robotic-assisted surgery for endometrial cancer

At Aurora Health Care, patients with endometrial cancer have the advantage of several minimally invasive treatment options, including robotic-assisted surgery. Aurora is a leader in the use of this advanced procedure and performed the very first robotic-assisted gynecologic surgery in Wisconsin. Robotic-assisted surgery is extremely precise, involves less trauma to the patient and less risk of infection. The result is shorter hospital stays and a more rapid return to everyday activities.

Accident horses have hope

Animal lovers line up to adopt recovering workhorses

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsjournal.com

WADSWORTH — The atmosphere at the Carney Farm has been somber recently, yet there is an air of unflappable hope.

The horse farm along Delany Road in Wadsworth has been serving as a temporary home for the horses that survived a rollover crash on Oct. 27.

In total, 17 horses died or were euthanized following the accident.

Many of the survivors have open wounds and are still in need of constant veterinary care. Donna Ewing, with the Hooved Animal Rescue and Protection Society (HARPS) in Barrington, said that people are lining up to adopt these horses, once they are out of the woods health-wise.

"We've got to watch them closely for trauma," Ewing said. "Some of them can't get up."

The accident occurred near 7 p.m. Oct. 27.

James E. Anderson, 34, of McLeod, N.D., was driving a double-decker semitrailer carrying 59 horses from Indiana to Minneapolis for auction. The driver ran a red light on Route 41, near its intersection with Wadsworth Road, struck a pickup truck, and rolled over.

The Lake County Sheriff's Department charged Anderson with disobeying a traffic-control device and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

The department will continue to work with the state and federal Department of Agriculture to see whether more charges will be filed in the case, according to a release from the sheriff's office.

Ewing is confident that the remaining horses will survive, but the majority are still many weeks away from adoption. The horses fall into three breeds, all from the draft, or working-horse, category. They include Belgian, Halflinger, and Percheron. Ewing said the Amish use these types of horses for pulling.

"They're not lovely riding horses," Ewing said. "They are young, and they have to grow."

Some of the horses weigh between 700 and 800 pounds. Ewing said they can be bred with a lighter-weight horse like an American sport horse.

Once the paperwork is gathered and the veterinarians release the horses, Ewing said, Great Western Insurance will help offset the cost of adoption. The adoption fee will be between $50 and $100.

Ewing said HARPS will be especially particular about the home these horses end up in, and potential adopters must be aware that there will be more veterinary bills in their future.

Ewing also said some of these horses will get as big as 2,000 pounds and would sell for about 75 cents a pound on the horse market.

Investigators have been tight-lipped about who owned the horses and where their exact final destination was to be, but, Ewing said, the horses

Beach Park resident offers his time

As a former firefighter with the Newport Township Fire Department, Robert Brown, of Beach Park, still keeps in touch with a number of his former co-workers.

On the night of Oct. 27, after a double-decker semitrailer carrying 59 horses from Indiana to Minneapolis rolled over, Brown got a call from one of his friends, asking whether he was listening to the police scanner.

When Brown heard that a semitrailer rolled over, he took his father-in-law, Fred Carney's, truck and trailer and headed out to the scene of the accident.

"I checked with Chief Mark Kirschhoffer if I could help," Brown said.

Other volunteers showed up with horse trailers as well. Brown ended up staging horse trailers at the accident, as firefighters and volunteers rolled up their sleeves to extract the horses that survived.

"I helped as much as I could," he said. "It was horrible."

Once all the horse trailers were loaded up, Brown said, there was talk that the horses would be taken to different farms. His father-in-law was out of town, but Brown made the call to take all the horses to Carney Farm in Wadsworth.

"I was thinking, 'I hope my father-in-law won't mind,'" he said.

The horse community is a small, tight-knit group. Once Brown gave Carney a description of the situation,

Carney said, "Whatever [Kirschhoffer] needs, you give him."

"We're all looking to take care of these horses," Brown said.

The 42 surviving horses will remain at the Carney Farm until they are well enough for adoption. Brown said the farm is equipped to feed, water, and provide shelter to the horses, and veterinarians come daily to give them drugs for the pain. He said just about every horse has a bruise, cut, or swollen eye or knee. Family friends volunteer their time to brush and groom the horses.

Brown said the horses are feeling better, at least mentally, and it's starting to show. They are bucking and playing.

"They're getting so lively now," he said.

He agreed with Ewing that the three breeds of horses — Belgian, Halflinger, and Percheron — were all well cared for before the accident.

Brown married into a horse family and has spent about 10 years working with them.

"But these guys need a job; they can't sit around and eat carrots all day," he said. "They need to be saddled or work."

Brown complimented the firefighters and other volunteers who helped on the day of the accident.

"The fire department did a great job; there are a lot of nice people out there," he said.

Commission prepares for annual park cleanup

It might be getting colder outside, but that won't stop a Libertyville group that is looking make sure the village parks stay clean.

Keep Libertyville Beautiful Commission is getting ready for the 15th Annual Park Clean Up Day. At 9 a.m. on Nov. 10 participants will gather at Nicholas Dowden Park, which is on the corner of Crane Boulevard and Dymond Road.

"We have people show up for all different reasons," said Paul Zaricor, Keep Libertyville Beautiful Commission member.

Zaricor and Gail Knachel, another Keep Libertyville Beautiful Commission member, have been active members in organizing this year's cleanup.

Zaricor said the participants generally are children from different groups such as girl scout and boy scout troops. But, Zaricor said, sometimes kids will show up just because they want to keep the parks clean.

"It's a real broad base of kids," he said.

More than 25 different parks are on the clean up list, Zaricor said, including many of the parks in neighborhoods.

Clean up time will be for about two hours, depending on weather conditions.

Even though the parks in Libertyville are generally clean, Zaricor said, kids will still find their fair share of trash. But when it's all said and done the kids are proud of their work.

"They feel really good about it when their done," Zaricor said.

'Breakfast with a Bear' to benefit Lake County Cares

Residents are invited to join Glen Kozlowski, former Chicago Bears wide receiver from 1987 to 1992, along with Lake County Clerk Willard Helander for the first Lake County "Breakfast with a Bear."

The breakfast will take place from 9 to 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 14, at the Lake County Administration Building, 18 N. County St. in Waukegan.

A breakfast of scrambled eggs, bacon, pastries, fruit and coffee will be served for a suggested donation of $25 a person, according to a release.

Seating is limited to 45 people. Call 847-377-2312 for more information and to secure your admission. The proceeds will benefit the Lake County Cares Workplace Giving Campaign, which helps the citizens of this community through a variety of charitable organizations.

Kozlowski can be heard as one of "The Three Bears" on WGN Radio's Sports Central and also is the head coach of the Wauconda High School boys varsity football team.

Jackie's Magic food drive collects more than 5,000 pounds of food

GURNEE - The counts are in and Jackie's Magic 2007, a food drive to help the needy in Lake County, was a success, organizers said.

More than 600 people attended the Nov. 3 event at Warren Township High School's O'Plaine campus.

Hundreds of people lined the walls of the auditorium, as it was standing room only, before the show had even started.

"My sister told me to go look inside [the auditorium] and when I did I was crying," said Jan Stanislawski, Jackie's mom.

Jan wore a yellow tag that said "Jackie's mom" and thanked everyone she saw that night.

She said it was the biggest event since they started the food drive in 2004.

Jan and her husband, Jim Stanislawski, created the food drive after their daughter Jackie died in an automobile accident in 2003.

After the accident, they found cans of food in the trunk of her car and discovered that she was single-handedly coordinating a food drive.

Since then they decided to continue their daughter's charity work.

This year the food drive collected 5,012 pounds of non-perishable food items that went to the Warren Township Food Pantry, according to organizers.

The Warren Transitional House will receive the $1,966 the event raised.

"Everyone is giving as much as they can" said Katie Schober, the adviser of Warren's EXCEL club.

Joe Shuman - wjnews@nwnewsgroup.com

With 50 student volunteers, the club was instrumental in the organization of the event. Schober said that besides what the people were already donating, as they entered the school they threw spare change into a barrel that was placed at the entrance.

Doors opened at 6 p.m. one hour before the magic show started and in every direction of the gym there was a hustle and bustle of activities.

On one corner of the gym, volunteer members of Warren's clubs EXCEL, Future Business Leaders of America, the French club and the international club were busy as bees sorting through the cans of food and categorizing them.

On the other side, wide-eyed youngsters with mouths open in awe stared at the masters of magic displaying their tricks at different tables.

And while card tricks and mind tricks by pre-show magicians Fizin, Marshall Philyaw and Jimmy Stanislawski entertained the adults, balloon artists Ping Pong and Stubbles T. Clown put smiles on little ones' faces with their balloon creations.

Almost two hours of magic was the reward to the many who donated food and money that night.

Magicians Jim Stan Magic Man (Jackie's dad), Magic Sam, Chezaday, The Balsters, Mark and Susan Holstein, Joe Diamond, Rob and Deb Russ, and celebrity Marshall Brodien performed for those whom attended the event.

"It was really cool, I enjoyed it a lot," said 8-year-old Josh Blockinger with a smile.

He attended the event with his sister Julia and his grandparents of Waukegan.

His grandmother, Johanna Blockinger who was Jackie's teacher many years ago, said she was impressed by the way the community came together.

LIBERTYVILLE - It's business time for Kathryn Kerrigan.

Kerrigan, owner of Kathryn Kerrigan Inc., recently was named by Inc.com as one of the 2007 top 30 entrepreneurs younger than 30. Kerrigan is listed as No. 5 for her Libertyville-based business that markets stylish shoes for women with larger than average feet.

"I was honored," Kerrigan said. "It's such an amazing feeling."

Kerrigan, 27, still peruses Inc.com when she has the time, she said.

But she might not have much time. On Nov. 12, Kerrigan will find out whether she is the winner of the Stevie

"It's so amazing," Kerrigan said of her nomination.

Kerrigan's company has expanded since she began selling shoes online in 2005. She opened a shop in Libertyville last year called Kathryn Kerrigan Studio, 221 N. Milwaukee Ave. But she isn't looking to stop there.

"We're definitely looking to expand," she said.

Some of her plans include opening another store in 2008 and having more boutiques carry her shoes.

At her Web site www.kathrynkerrigan.com, visitors can buy shoes online or find stores throughout the United States that carry them.

Kerrigan, who used to play basketball for Libertyville High School and Lake Forest College, began her business because she remembered how difficult it was for her to find size 11 shoes for prom.

"We'd go shoe shopping and you can't buy anything," she said.

While getting her MBA in business at Loyola, Kerrigan came up with a business plan for a class that later resulted in the business that got her recognized by Inc.com and the Stevie Awards.

Prayer breakfast approaches

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

The Exchange Clubs of Lake and McHenry Counties will host the annual "One Nation Under God" prayer breakfast from 7 to 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the Gurnee Community Church, 4555 Old Grand Ave. in Gurnee.

It is a long standing tradition with Exchange Clubs across America to welcome the start of the holiday season with this community-wide event, according to a release.

"This event helps remind us of the freedom and liberties that all of us as Americans share and to use the holiday season as a time to reflect on our many blessings," event chair Don Fontana said in a statement.

Jointly-sponsored by the five Lake County Exchange Clubs and the Exchange Club of McHenry, this year's event will feature retired U.S. Navy Cmdr. Mark Jumper.

Currently serving as senior pastor of Hope Evangelical Presbyterian Church in Libertyville, Jumper served as a chaplain for 24 years, retiring in 2006. A veteran of Operations Desert Storm and Iraqi Freedom, he devised and implemented the Marine Corps Warrior Transition Program, about which he testified to Congress, according to the release.

The event is open to the public.

ROBERT M. BINDLEY

Born: May 12, 1941
Died: Oct. 31, 2007
He knew no strangers and loved his family without condition

LINDENHURST - Robert M. Bindley passed away Wednesday, Oct. 31, 2007, at his home in Lindenhurst, after a courageous battle with cancer. Bob was born on May 12, 1941, in Terre Haute, Ind., the son of Maxine and J. Bruce Bindley. He graduated from Terre Haute's Wiley High School in 1959 and then volunteered for the military, serving for four years in the U.S. Army in Korea and Massachusetts.

Bob returned to Terre Haute to raise his family and he owned Sonka's Tavern. He then worked for Brentlinger Distributing Co. until 1978. He earned a bachelor's degree from Indiana State University in 1970. Bob had a long career as a sales manager with the Stroh Brewery Co. in both Indiana and Illinois.

Bob's last job was as an office manager for the Louis Glunz beer distributorship, retiring in 2006. Bob enjoyed fishing, bowling and good food.

Bob knew no strangers; he approached life with a joy that, even with his sufferings, never left him. He loved his family without condition; his humor, friendly nature, and generous spirit served him well.

Bob is survived by his loving wife of 44 years, Eileen; two daughters, Lisa Colver, and husband, Dr. Robert, of Zionsville, Ind., and Susan Clarke and husband, Brad, of Glen Ellyn; and a son, Bob and wife, Lisa, of Newburgh, Ind. Survivors also include his adoring grandchildren, Lauren, John, Torrey, Kate, Will, Jack and Allison, as well as many nieces and nephews. Bob was preceded in death by his parents and brothers, Jack and Norm.

"The father may die, and yet he is not dead, for he has left behind him one like himself" (Sirach 30:4). Bob was a good man.

The funeral was at 4:30 p.m. Nov. 3 at Strang Funeral Home of Antioch, 1055 Main St., Antioch, with visitation beginning at 1 p.m.

Lake County residents plant thousands of tulips

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

More than 6,000 red tulips were planted throughout Lake County during national Red Ribbon Week, Oct. 23 - 31, according to a news release from the Lake County Health Department.

The Red Ribbon campaign was started in 1985 after drug traffickers in Mexico City murdered Drug Enforcement Administration agent Kiki Camarena, and his family began wearing red ribbons in his honor, according to the release.

Recently, organizations have begun planting red tulips during Red Ribbon Week.

In Lake County, tulip bulbs were planted at more than 60 sites to celebrate those who have chosen to be tobacco-free and to honor those whose lives have been touched by a tobacco-related disease.

When the tulips bloom in the spring, the spectacular bloom of "tobacco free red" will

Portions of Rollins Road close

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

FOX LAKE - The Lake County Division of Transportation will close Rollins Road to through traffic from Washington Avenue to Wilson Road in Ingleside, for five days, beginning Nov. 12.

It is expected to be reopened by the evening rush hour Friday, Nov. 17, according to a news release.

The closure of Rollins Road is necessary to allow the county's contractor, Landmark Contractors Inc. to remove and replace the culvert for the Duck Lake Drain, according to the release.

Local traffic will be allowed from Washington Avenue to the culvert work site and from the culvert work site to Wilson Road.

No traffic will be allowed within the culvert work site.

The county also will conduct maintenance on the Squaw Creek Bridge that will entail closing one lane of Rollins Road during the day within the local traffic area.

Future Knights learn how to cheer

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

ROUND LAKE BEACH - Future Grayslake North Knights cheerleaders gained a sense of what they could expect when youngsters took part in a Nov. 3 clinic at Grayslake North High School.

Junior varsity and varsity team members and head coach Sarah Georgia conducted the event.

"It was the biggest turnout that we have had," Georgia said. "We taught them the basics and they all did a line dance."

Team members did a great job teaching the girls, Georgia said.

The girls ranged in age from pre-kindergarten to sixth grade. They will be invited back to a Knights home game Dec. 15. They attended elementary schools from Grayslake, Lake Villa, Round Lake area and Millburn.

The Knights will have a varsity squad of 16 and 20 on junior varsity.

Their first competition will be in December at Maine South.

Free HomeFinder Service Helps Lake County Homebuyers Buy Beautiful Homes From $200,000 To $400,000 For Zero Down

Lake County, Illinois
Thursday, November 8, 2007

I'm Doug Anderson with Blue Fence Real Estate. I started this service because many consumers think they need tens of thousands of dollars to buy a $200,000 to $500,000 home these days. You may have talked with Realtors or Lenders who have told you that you need $30,000, $50,000 or even $70,000 to buy a home in Lake County.

Five years ago that may have been the case, but it is no longer true. As a matter of fact, right now there are loans that enable you to buy a $200,000 to $400,000 house for absolutely zero down payment.

It's easy to learn what homes and home loans are available with my new HomeFinder Service. Each night my HomeFinder computers access the Lake County area Multiple Listing Service and search through all the information on every home listed in the entire area by every real estate company.

The computers sift and sort through all of the new listings, automatically finding and matching the homes that meet your exact specifications. The system then mails, or if you prefer, automatically faxes or e-mails you that information on a daily, weekly or twice-weekly basis... your choice.

The HomeFinder Service gives you access to inside information normally available only to real estate agents. From the privacy of your home, on a daily basis, you receive information about every single home available in the area of your choice, and you receive this information even before many other real estate agents have seen it!

As you receive information about homes you're interested in, you can study, compare, and drive by the properties on your own. When you find a home you'd like to see, all you need to do is give us a call and we'll make arrangements to get you inside the home at your convenience.

My HomeFinder team is totally service oriented. We're not typical salespeople. At no time will you ever feel any pressure to buy a home. When you find the perfect home, you'll know it. And then you'll tell us.

In addition to the HomeFinder Service, our team has a HomeFinder computer network that searches through 324 home loan programs to find the best home loan programs for you. This allows us to find the very best loan to meet your personal objectives - be it low interest rate, low monthly payments, or zero down payment.

As you can well imagine, there's just too much to tell you about in this brief article, but it's easy for you to get more information. For more information give me a call at 847-984-0721 and I will take care of the rest.

Fake news and FEMA

By most accounts, authorities have handled the California wildfires effectively. Unlike during Hurricane Katrina, in which the Federal Emergency Management Agency was skewered for failing to take charge of the disaster, in this instance it appears that FEMA rose to the challenge. Hundreds of thousands of people were evacuated and loss of life was minimized.

But leave it to FEMA to take what should have been a generally positive story and turn it into a negative. FEMA officials recently decided to host a bogus news conference in which questions were asked by bureaucrats posing as reporters.

Homeland Security chief Michael Chertoff recently called the fake briefing "one of the dumbest things ... I've ever seen."

Chertoff said that those involved would be disciplined. The White House said that it did not know about the fake news conference and that it should not have happened.

It's good to see the Bush administration saying all the right things. The administration's condemnation would carry much more weight if not for its past affinity for manufactured news.

This is an administration that paid columnist and pundit Armstrong Williams $240,000 to publicly support No Child Left Behind. And there was the $21,500 contract columnist Maggie Gallagher had with the Department of Health and Humans Services to promote Bush's $300 million marriage initiative in 2002.

Certainly no one could forget James Dale Guckert, aka Jeff Gannon. Gannon gained fame in 2005 after he asked a softball question during a White House press briefing. The news media and bloggers inquired into Gannon's background and found that he worked for an organization known as Talon News, which apparently was owned by GOPUSA.

And there also was the administration's use of video news releases to promote initiatives such as No Child Left Behind. The releases were produced like and resembled news stories and were sent to TV stations, some of which aired them without telling viewers that they essentially were watching propaganda.

Given all of this, we think that the administration should come down hard on those responsible at FEMA for the fake news conference. Enough is enough. The Bush administration has to send a message that such behavior is inappropriate and will not be tolerated.

Appreciation for response

To the editor:
On behalf of the entire Lake County Farm Bureau Board of Directors, our organization wants to convey our deepest appreciation and gratitude to the police and fire personnel along with the many local farmers, volunteers, and veterinarians who responded to the tragic horse accident on Route 41 in Wadsworth.

As agriculture in Lake County continues to decrease because of development, we are reminded that agriculture and those who care about the land, animals and the industry as a whole, continue to call Lake County home.

This was evident by the actions of the many volunteers, some with equestrian backgrounds and others simply concerned about the safety and well being of the injured animals.

While the investigation into the accident continues the questions regarding the transportation of 59 horses in a small confined trailer, I hope, will be answered.

As an organization, we are reminded of the importance of training first responders of the complexity and often times danger in dealing with livestock and other farm related accidents.

Again, we extend our deepest appreciation to those individuals who took the time to assist in the rescue and recovery efforts of those injured horses.

Ethics needed in D-46

To the editor:
I want to thank Grayslake School District 46 school board members Jill Rohrer, Sue Facklam, Kristen Coe Peek and Mike Linder on their ethical decision to defease the 1999 bond money. I only wish that their choice of ethics was used in all of their decisions.

Two of these members chose to avoid ethics during the last board election by campaigning door-to-door and using automated phone messages to endorse candidates of their choice.

Ethics also was ignored when a school board meeting was on June 6, but not posted with the required time frame clearly violating the Opening Meetings Act.

If you want to preach ethics, then practicing what is preached should be done at all times, not just when it is convenient for

Sen. Garrett earns public service award

State Sen. Susan Garrett, D-Lake Forest, received the Illinois Hospital Association's 2007 Excellence in Public Service Award at a luncheon at Lovell's restaurant in Lake Forest Nov. 1 after a meeting of her Blue Ribbon Health Care Committee hosted by Lake Forest Hospital.

"The award is in recognition of Garrett's outstanding commitment to health-care delivery and other services that improve the health of Illinoisans," according to a release from Lake Forest Hospital.

Bean touts fiscal responsibility

The 110th Congress has brought fiscal responsibility back to Washington, U.S. Rep. Melissa Bean, D-Barrington, said recently on the steps of the U.S. Capitol building.

On the anniversary of the new Democratic majority's election, Bean joined House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, Majority Leader Steny Hoyer and others in a celebration of the accomplishments of Congress.

Bean was recognized for leadership in promoting accountability and transparency in Congress, according to the release.

"I know most people don't associate Washington with fiscal responsibility; they think they don't go together. But in the 110th Congress, they do," Bean said. "We've restored what had been successful in the past - PAYGO budget rules and fiscal discipline - by requiring Congress to pay for what we spend. After years of the borrow-and-spend policies that ran this nation up to a $9 trillion national debt, it's about time."

Joining Bean was 8th District constituent Jacquelyn "Jackie" Cohen, of Grayslake.

"I'm glad that this Congress has finally stopped all of the deficit spending," Cohen said.

County Clinton delegates

After gathering more than 15,000 signatures through an all-volunteer effort, the Clinton Campaign officially filed paperwork to place native Hillary Clinton's name on Illinois' presidential primary ballot. The campaign also filed its full slate of 119 delegate and alternate candidates who have pledged to support Clinton if they are elected to attend the 2008 Democratic National Convention in Denver.

"I am grateful to all my friends in Illinois for their help in putting me on the ballot in my home state," Clinton said in a statement.

Clinton grew up in Park Ridge and graduated from Maine South High School in 1965.

Every American child has been left behind

Two months from now, on Jan. 9, 2008, the No Child Left Behind law will be six years old. It was heralded as the school reform law of the century. It was supposed to provide quality education and, by the year 2014, every student would be proficient in reading and mathematics.

As the law attempted to assess the educational progress of students, it is time to assess the worthiness of the law itself. In plain language, No Child Left Behind has flunked.

Many times, in this column, I have warned that citizens should be apprehensive when Congress or legislatures ballyhoo reform and give it a can't miss title. Such was the No Child Left Behind bill. It passed overwhelmingly.

Surely, it wasn't written by educators and teachers, or anyone with experience and training in education. I wonder how many lawmakers read the provisions of the bill.

If the intent of the law was to better prepare students at test-taking, the legislators might have reached a hollow goal. The standardized tests, administered by the states, are primarily multiple-choice exams.

The tests prove nothing as to what, or whether, students are learning. Dropout rates have remained the same as before the law was enacted.

John S. Matijevich

I think that the public school system ought to operate so that every child has the opportunity to reach his or her potential.

Students who might be gifted must be challenged to become the best that they can be. Less performing students, too, should be motivated and taught to be the best that they can be. When any student is neglected, everyone is left behind.

That's what's wrong with the law. Teachers are spending more time teaching how to pass tests. If the law is re-authorized by Congress in its present form, it will set education back a decade, or more.

Is that the intent of the law? Many have become cynics of the law. Some criticisms are that students who have been designated as failures have been targeted for private schools, instead of placing them in successful public schools.

Was it someone's goal to promote privatized education? If so, it is a recipe for failure. To think that you can fit every student into one mold and render every student within a specified time to be proficient in reading and mathematics is an unrealistic concept, in the first place.

There will be some, no matter the quality of education, who just won't make it. There will be some, no matter what, who will be outstanding. Then there will be some who will always "freeze" when taking tests.

Also, I am from the "old school" of emphasizing reading, writing, and arithmetic, but the law's emphasis on test preparedness reduces time and importance of other programs. These programs include history, art, music, civics, geography, and the everyday interaction of respect of students toward each other.

What baffles me is that some of the prime movers of the law were those who always clamored to "get the federal government out of our lives." Yet, it was OK to allow the bureaucrats to intrude into our schools. What happened to local control?

It is time to get the politicians out of the classrooms, and turn education back to the teachers.

John Matijevich writes a weekly column for the Lake County Journals.

Uncommon doctor.

For Dr. Mike Peters, saving lives is a way of life.

When he isn't in the Lake Forest Hospital Emergency Department treating patients, Dr. Mike Peters can be found volunteering with the Lake Bluff Fire Department. He joined the department shortly after 9/11. Like many doctors at Lake Forest Hospital, community involvement for Mike is a way of life.

It's that special relationship between medical staff and community that makes Lake Forest Hospital and its uncommon doctors different from the rest. One more reason why an independent survey named Lake Forest Hospital the 2007/08 #1 Consumer Choice in Lake and Kenosha Counties for best doctors and best overall quality for the third consecutive year.*

Creating future stars

Sixteen-year-old Kelsey Peters, a junior at Grant Township High School, gets an autograph from Luke Menard, a member of the a cappella singing group Chapter 6. Chapter 6 was one of the groups that performed during the school's third annual Festival of Stars, a one-day music program that 100 students participated in.

Students, adults take the stage for Festival of the Stars

The halls of Grant Community High School in Fox Lake were filled with music on Oct. 27 for a special event.

The event, called the Festival of the Stars, was co-sponsored by the Barbershop Quartet Harmony Society and was the end of a one-day program that offered musical enrichment and education to 100 students.

Jay Giallombardo, director of The New Tradition Chorus of Northbrook, directed the male students in rehearsals throughout the day.

"He is one of the most talented, well-respected directors and arrangers in the barbershop arena," said Krista Koske, the school's vocal music director.

Female students prepared for the evening's entertainment with Jeanne O'Connor, of the Village Vocal Chords from LaGrange. O'Connor has led her chorus to 15 international gold medals.

The all-day efforts of guest directors highlighted the young men's chorus, the young women's chorus, as well as featured performances by New Tradition, Village Vocal Chords, guest quartet Men in Black, and the all-male a cappella group Chapter 6. The grand finale featured all singers, both students and adults.

"Throughout the day, I enjoy the smiles and awe of our students," Koske said. "It is great to see the light bulb go off when they finally understand a concept or idea."

Betty Guntermau, of Lombard, was one of the girls instructors.

"It is wonderful," she said. "They soak it up like sponges."

Guntermau taught high school music for 40 years, she said, and then continued her interest with barbershop style.

"It was amazing," Grant senior Angie Kambert said.

The auditorium was filled to capacity for the evening concert.

"It is fantastic," John Cain, of Ingleside, said. "Each year it spreads to other schools."

Burt Keever has been involved in barbershop quartet singing since 1953.

"In 1987, we won the international gold medal in Hartford, Conn. A friend asked me to sing with him ... and I was hooked," Keever said.

Inside the mind of Mencia

Comedy Central comedian Carlos Mencia comes to Genesee Theatre

By DANI SCHWEIGERT
dschweigert@nwnewsgroup.com

Carlos Mencia, the writer, actor, and comedian who hosts "Mind of Mencia," might best be known for a single phrase: Dee dee dee.

And now, the creative mind of Mencia is gearing up for a tour starting Nov. 9. And on Nov. 16, he will stop by Genesee Theatre in Waukegan for two performances at 7 and 10:30 p.m.

The Lake County Journals recently chatted with Mencia about his role in "The Heartbreak Kid," turning 40, and how he comes up with those jokes that seem to have everyone talking.

You recently played Uncle Tito in "The Heartbreak Kid" with Ben Stiller. What was that experience like?

They called me up and asked if I wanted to be in a movie with Ben Stiller, and I was like, "Ben Stiller? Yes!" They asked if I would be willing to play a stereotypical, eccentric, crazy guy. And I was like, "Sure, why not? For Ben Stiller, anything." I've got to be honest with you, it was an amazing experience.

What would you say is the biggest difference between being on stage and being on screen?

Being on stage is much different. We do live shows, so you hear the laughs from the audience immediately, and you get the reaction from America a few weeks later. But with films, it's one year later before you get a reaction. Sometimes I feel like I'm going "knock knock," and it's a year before someone goes, "Who's there?"

But I like being involved with both because it's like exercising different parts of my brain.

You turned 40 on Oct. 22. How was that, and what did you do to celebrate?

My wife threw a big party for me, but I don't feel any different being 40. I'm in the best shape of my life. I was never one of those people who said, "I want to do this before I'm 40," because I grew up in the

Carlos Mencia
Writer, actor, comedian, and host of "Mind of Mencia" ghetto, and I surpassed my expectations about 20 years ago.

I saw that you have a MySpace page. What made you want to create that?

I'm one of those people who understands that my fans make me who I am. My life is what it is because of my fans, so whatever I can do for them, I'll do.

Your name on your birth certificate is Ned Arnel Mencia, but you took the name Ned Holness until you were 18 years old. What made you take that name?

My birth dad's last name is Holness, but I was adopted by my aunt and uncle, and their last name is Mencia. Mencia is the maiden name of my birth mom.

What made you later change your name to Carlos Mencia?

The owner of the Comedy Store said, "you can't be an angry Mexican comedian named Ned." I told him I was born in Honduras, but I have a [relative] named Carlos, and he said, "that'll work."

You come from a family of eighteen children. What was it like growing up in a family that size?

Carlos Mencia

When: 7 and 10:30 p.m. Nov. 16
Where: Genesee Theatre, 203 N. Genesee St., in Waukegan
Tickets: Tickets can be bought at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212, or online at www.ticketmaster.com.

(Laughs) It was normal. That's the way it was for me. It's only now when people say, "Wow, you have how many in your family?" that I say, "Yeah, I guess that is a lot."

How do you come up with your material?

I just live. I keep my ears to the ground and listen for what people are thinking about, but won't say. That's what I try to find, and that's what I want to talk about.

Some people feel that your material is a bit strong and perhaps a little offensive. How do you respond to those people?

The material obviously is for them.

Speaking of your material, how did you come up with your catch phrase, "dee dee dee?"

It's a version of duh to the third power. Like when you walk down the street and see a couple and say, "Man, I hope they don't have kids, because she's a duh, and he's a duh, so their kid would be a duh to the third power - dee dee dee."

Your getting ready to go on tour soon. How is that going?

It's awesome, and I'm really looking forward to it. I'm looking forward to coming to Waukegan.

Who would you say has been your biggest inspiration?

After I became a comedian, I've been inspired by other comedians. But the biggest influence in my life is my father. He's always had the biggest influence on my life.

Are you close with your father then?

Yeah, I'm very close with him.

Has being a father and a husband had an affect on your life or material?

If anything it's made me even edgier on stage because I care less what people think (laughs). Naw, honestly, my philosophy on life was set before I started a family.

What's the biggest lesson you've learned so far in life?

Don't take things personally.

Soon, guests at Six Flags Great America in Gurnee will not have to wait until Halloween to be thrilled in the dark. Six Flags Great America is scheduled to build a new enclosed roller coaster called The Dark Knight by next May in conjunction with the coming Batman movie, also called "The Dark Knight."

"The minute you enter the line, you are transformed into a citizen of Gotham," said Brooke Gabbert, public relations manager for Six Flags Great America.

While walking through the line, guests will find Gotham City under attack by Batman's nemesis - The Joker.

According to a press release, guests will walk through twisted hallways, see hallucinatory images, and step onto a vandalized train platform before they enter the roller coaster.

Guests will ride part of the 1,213-foot coaster in the dark, speeding through some hills, quick descents, and six 180-degree hairpin turns.

MACK Rides, a German company that designs and constructs roller coasters, specializes in building dark roller coasters and will build the $75-million ride.

Food and fun at Sharky's Billiards and Sports Bar

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER
lesonlife@sbcglobal.net

Sharky's believes in doing things in a big way. For one, the establishment boasts two full bars and seating capacity in the hundreds. Add to that 14 TVs, 7 pool tables, Baggo bean bag toss, 2 dart boards, arcade games, and the 24 lane Lakes Bowl and the whole family can enjoy a visit.

But that's just the beginning of the fun. Sharky's has fall pool and dart leagues now forming, in addition to bowling leagues at Lakes Bowl. There's even a kids bowling league on Saturday mornings.

Football fans will enjoy watching the NFL Sunday ticket on Sharky's plasma TV wall in the newly remodeled lounge. And while you're there, take advantage of the Sunday special: a 16-inch sausage or pepperoni pizza and a domestic pitcher for only $16.00, along with free pool and Baggo.

Then there's the live entertainment, like "Flashback Fridays" every Friday night from 10:00 p.m. to 3:00 a.m. Dance, sing, and listen to all your favorite hits from the '70s, '80s, and '90s. On Saturday night try your hand at karaoke, or just enjoy the DJ.

Once you work up an appetite, Sharky's also offers a tasty menu, including its homemade pizza. Sharky's has a varied selection of reasonably priced appetizers, such as battered mushrooms for $4.00 or their new flavored chicken wings for $5.00.

Sharky's Billiards and Sports Bar is located inside Lakes Bowl, 601 Railroad Ave. (Rt. 134) in Round Lake.

In addition, Sharky's offers items for the heartier appetite. I ordered their 1/4 pound hamburger, which came piled high with lettuce, tomato, and onions and a generous helping of fries, all for $5.25.

Owner Joe Piagentini reiterated that Sharky's and Lakes Bowl, opened by his parents 39 years ago, is a good value for family entertainment. He said the business is family run and "they are hands on and always around to talk with you." No question, Joe and his family have great food and family fun down pat.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Scorpio, you might be surprised to find out this week that you don't have all of the answers. But don't let it make you feel inadequate.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

While you won't move mountains this week, Sagittarius, you certainly will make your mark in smaller circles. Co-workers will be impressed with your determination.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

A slow few days evolves into a rush of activity by the weekend, Capricorn.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Aquarius, now is the time to plan a mini-get-away. You need a chance to relax.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20

Pisces, it will take a cool head to get through a situation at work this week.

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20

Aries, make up your mind to accomplish something, then stick to it. You can't play both sides of the fence.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21

Romantic aspirations fall flat as a work project puts a snafu in all of your plans, Taurus.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Gemini, if variety is the spice of life, then your plate is quite spicy this week.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

Unattached Cancers, be on the look out because you've caught the eye of someone.

LEO - July 23/Aug 23

Anything can happen in the next few days, so it's best to be prepared for the unexpected, Leo.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Virgo, financial concerns still put you short of reaching that goal. You'll just have to shelve it again for the time being.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

A rash decision puts you in over your head, Libra, and it will take a close friend in Gemini to help.

Late advice

Who are these people who write advice columns when - clearly - they should be taking other action?

We have a doctor "on staff" in the pages of this newspaper, as well as auto advice columnists and helpful home hint-givers.

They do a great service. But it makes me wonder whether there's someone out there standing next to his or her mailbox, waiting for the doctor columnist to send a reply about his or her acute appendicitis. Even e-mail wouldn't be quick enough, considering someone has to choose that e-mail from the many that come in and place it on the long list of other people's problems.

Every once in a while, we get a real humdinger of a problem that I hope was taken care of well before the column ran in the paper.

If you accidentally ingest an entire car battery, call 911! Don't go looking for a piece of stationery to write Dr. Columnist.

"Dear Dr. Columnist: My arm fell off, as well as seven of my toes. The dog ran off with several of the toes. I tried putting the remaining toes in some Vicks VapoRub, but they could not be reattached in my kitchen. I asked my wife - who stopped breathing twice this morning - whether I shouldn't consider going to see a doctor. You see, I have a moral objection to organized health care systems..."

For heaven's sake! Go to the emergency room, man!

This is why I don't

Straight from the horse's blog

Being a journalist can be a lonely job. Even though I get to interact with hundreds of athletes, coaches, referees and every one else on the field, I rarely get a chance to listen to what the readers have to say.

It's something like being an electrician or a plumber - you're only going to get called when something goes wrong. Outside of the occasional call from an angry parent, about the only feedback I've ever received from the readers is about this column. Now, there will be plenty more to call about.

Last week, the higher ups gave me a new responsibility, as the Lake County Journals Web site began my Lake County Sports blog at www.lakecountyjournals.com/blogs/lakecountysports. This blog will give me the chance to talk about anything and everything that is going on in our area's rich sports world.

You can learn about college signings, sports rumors from around the area, and random sports thoughts straight from the mind of Daniel J. Patrick. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, I will post new entries on the Lake County Sports blog.

After nearly three years of covering sports in the area, I know a thing or two about Lake County sports. Now, I will have the opportunity to pass even more of that knowledge to you.

That's also a two-way street. This blog will also give you, the reader, more of a chance to critique my insights and even add some of your own. Up to now, this little column gave me the chance to give you about 400 words of my thoughts every week. Thanks to this new blog, I will have the chance to pass on every sports thought in my head.

And now, you will have an even better chance to give your thoughts back to me and I welcome every one of your thoughts about the blog. Good or bad, feedback is always welcome.

Check out Lake County Sports: A real local blog by the REAL Dan Patrick at www.lakecountyjournals.com/blogs/lakecountysports. While you're at it, be sure to add a few of your thoughts as well.

Grant quarterback Pavel Zurkowski looks down field for a receiver during an IHSA Class 6A football playoff game against Lemont. Lemont beat the Bulldogs 21-7. The loss ended Grant's season at 10-1.

Grant forced to keep dreaming

Bulldogs season ends with loss to Lemont

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE - Grant's public address announcer summed up what a lot of people were feeling as few on the Bulldogs side wanted to leave Paul Lewis Field.

"Thanks, Bulldogs, for a great, exciting season," Matt Erickson said minutes after the best 10-game run in Grant football history ended.

Lemont ousted the Bulldogs 21-7 in a hard-fought IHSA Class 6A second-round clash Nov. 3. But coach Kurt Rous said he could not be more proud of the 2007 season. And so are the fans, who thanked the Bulldogs as they walked off the field.

"We set the standard for future Grant teams to be judged," Rous said of the 10-1 season.

Rous said he thinks the future holds some college football for key seniors such as quarterback Pavel Zurkowski.

"Pavel has the height at 6-3, and whichever college gets him will be getting a bargain," Rous said.

Rous also went on to praise defensive lineman Bobby Madlener and his future in football.

"You can't measure the heart of a guy like Madlener," Rous said.

Rous said he is hopeful that the Bulldogs, which are 16-6 in his two years coaching, will be able to keep the good run going next year. Fans can point to defensive leaders Kevin Savage (11 tackles vs. Lemont), Bud Staton (nine tackles) and Jacob Brown (five tackles) as key returnees.

The Bulldogs battled to the final minute, before turnovers and penalties did them in.

"We weren't intimidated by them. I have seen bigger and scarier," Rous said. "We just made too many turnovers, and penalties in the red zone."

The Bulldogs struck first as Zurkowski, who had 194 yards passing, found junior Tommy Bychowski open on a 71-yard pass play for the home team's lone touchdown with 5:46 left in the first quarter.

But the Grant highlight didn't just come from the offensive side.

Senior Jordan Welter's interception turned back an Indian chance to score after a long drive. And Madlener stopped Lemont quarterback Brett Nagel for an 8-yard loss, forcing a missed field goal try.

But Grant's next red zone chance backfired, as a blocked field goal was picked up by Lemont's Steve Shredl who ran it back 70 yards for a go-ahead score with 30 seconds left in the third.

A fumble recovery by Lemont set up the third score, a 13-yard pass from Nagel to Peter Corsi with 8:42 left.

Despite the loss, Rous said, he was pleased with his team's effort.

"I told them to thank the fans after the game," Rous said. "They had a fantastic year."

Junior Israel Rodriguez had 55 yards to lead the Grant rushing game, Zurkowski had 29. Bychowski had 177 reception yards in nine catches. Nagel and Bobby Earnest were the workhorses for the Indians, rushing for 88 and 96 yards respectively.

The sun rose Nov. 4, but no practices were planned for the checker-dominated Grant High football field or surrounding grounds. It would be a week for equipment check-ins. But not memory check-ins. Those go on forever.

Top of the class

Two Lake County runners place in Class 3A, 2A

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

Last weekend, cross country teams raced for the final time this season.

While there weren't any area teams competing at the state competition, there was a handful of runners representing Lake County.

Warren junior runner Heather Olson has been one of the premier Lake County cross country runners this year.

Olson lived up to that billing with a top 10 finish in last weekend's cross country state championship.

Olson took seventh in the IHSA Class 3A competition with a time of 17:24.

Sandburg senior Kristin Sutherland was the 3A state champion with a time of 16:40.

While Olson was the only area runner to reach All-State status in 3A, Lake County was relatively better represented in 2A.

In the 2A competition, Lakes' Rachel Dickman finished in 13th place with a time of 18:09.

Antioch sophomore Erin Poss also finished in the top 20 with a time of 18:13. Poss's time was good enough for a No. 18 place.

Recognizing the best

Journals name Wisniewski best offensive player

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrik@nwnewsgroup.com

When it comes to Lake County offensive players, there is Wauconda senior Brad Wisniewski and there is everyone else.

"Brad is just a special player," Wauconda coach Glen Kozlowski said after Wisniewski's last game.

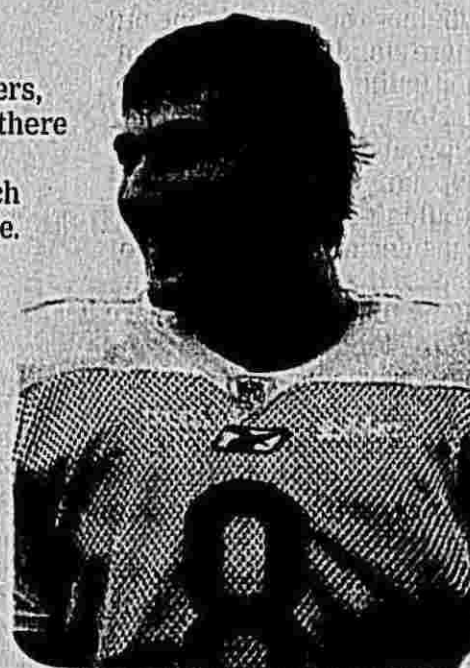

"He's just the kind of player that you can build an entire team around. He's one of the best."

If his coach's words don't convince you, perhaps a few numbers will.

With 1,549 yards and 23 touchdowns in 2007, he's not even on par with what he did in 2006. Nevertheless, it places him among the state's best in both categories.

"Wiz is a once-in-a-20-years running back," Kozlowski said. "He's got such power and he works so hard."

QuickHitters

Heather Olson

Heather Olson - Warren

After much anticipation, Warren's Heather Olson lived up to her billing with a seventh-place finish in the cross country state meet. Olson completed the three-mile course in 17:24, keeping a mile pace of 5:48 to beat out 161 other runners in the race.

Nick Lane

Nick Lane - Grayslake North

Being the first state medalist in school history is quite an achievement. But Knight cross country runner Nick Lane's top five in IHSA Class 2A state meet makes it all the better. Lane took fifth with a time of 14:55 to lead all area boys entrants.

Carmel Corsairs

What: De La Salle vs. Carmel
Where: Dan Ryan Field at De La Salle Institute in Chicago
When: 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10

After all the hard work, it comes down to this. Carmel will have to take on De La Salle in IHSA Class 7A quarterfinals. Both teams are 9-2, fresh off of upset wins, and carry sixth and seventh seeds.

Does it really get any better than this? Not likely.

Season-ending experience

Grant football players leave the field after their 21-7 loss in an IHSA Class 6A playoff game against Lemont. With the loss, the Bulldogs end their season at 10-1.

Carmel continues its wild ride

Corsairs fake punt forces overtime, win

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

NORTHBROOK - For years, the Corsair has been Carmel's mascot. But after coach Andy Bitto's team escaped with the 28-22 overtime win Nov. 3, perhaps the mascot should've been one lucky cat.

"I think we dodged about eight or nine bullets," Bitto said. "I think if I was a cat, I would have used up most of my nine lives on that one."

Through the third quarter, the game was a good old-fashioned football game - with Carmel on the losing side. Facing a 16-7 deficit at the end of the third quarter, the Corsairs went to work for one crazy quarter.

Halfway through the fourth, Carmel scored on a touchdown with 6:32 left to cut the lead to 16-14. With the Corsairs seemingly back in the game with plenty of momentum, Glenbrook North came storming back.

On the ensuing kick, Glenbrook's Peter Reporto returned the ball 80 yards for the touchdown and the 22-14 lead.

"With that lead, we thought it was going to hold up," Glenbrook North coach Bob Pieper said. "We got that kick and I thought we were in control again."

But just as soon Glenbrook landed that punch, Carmel landed a right hook of its own. On the Corsairs' next drive, the Spartans forced a three-and-out, Bitto opted to fake the punt.

But rather than going for the simple first down, Corsair

Ryan Williams had other ideas. Williams took the snap and ran for 60 yards, breaking numerous tackles for a touchdown.

As Corsair quarterback David Venegoni scored a two-point conversion and the 22-22 tie, Carmel was back in business. Surprisingly, Williams said that his impressive touchdown came because of a broken fake.

Pieper said his team didn't buy the punt formation. But while they foresaw the fake, neither Pieper or Carmel coach Bitto foresaw Williams taking the ball up the wrong side of the field.

In overtime, Carmel scored the final blow to take the 28-22 win and move on to the third round. Corsair Geoffrey Fields won the game in comparatively undramatic fashion as he ran the ball two yards for the victory.

Sustained greatness

Week in and week out, area football fans could rely on spectacular numbers from Wisniewski. In the middle of the season, he went four straight games with 125 yards or more. During that run, he racked up 257 yards and three touchdowns against Lakes and 240 yards and three scores against Antioch. After he broke that streak, he came back with 184 yards and two scores against Round Lake.

"You always know what you're going to get from him," Kozlowski said. "He's one of those special work-horse runners that would run through a brick wall for you."

Even in "off" days,

Wisniewski was spectacular. When Lake Zurich plastered the Bulldogs with a 49-6 victory, the Bears limited him to a season-low 49 yards.

But they couldn't keep him out of the end zone. In fact, that Lake Zurich game was one of just two games that he had less than 100 yards.

The other? Well, he only had 96 yards and three touchdowns on 15 carries. And that was in a 56-7 blowout of Marengo where Kozlowski limited Wisniewski's playing time.

Against Vernon Hills and a gang-tackling scheme, Wisniewski finished with 179 yards and four touchdowns on 41 carries. Forty-one carries might seem like a one-way ticket to injury for most high school running backs, but for Wisniewski it was just another day at the office.

Respect

With numbers like that, he has earned plenty of respect from other coaches.

"[Wisniewski] is a great player; there's no doubt about it," Vernon Hills coach Tony Monken said. "You have to change your whole defensive scheme for a player like that. He commands respect because he's such an impressive runner."

Round Lake coach Doug Moss had an impressive running back of his own in Ray Bryant. While Bryant was hampered in the matchup, Wisniewski put up 184 yards. And "The Wiz," as he's been called, earned Moss's respect as well.

"He is, without a doubt, one of the best in the state," Moss said after the game. "He's able to change games and Wauconda's lucky to have a guy like that on their team."

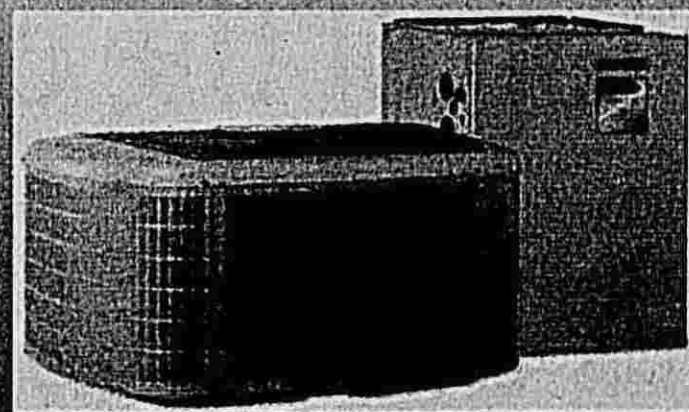

Once again, Wisniewski isn't your normal high school football player. While most players are off to recuperate from a season of bumps and bruises, Wisniewski is off to a power camp to further hone his skills. But what else would you expect from him?

"A guy like Brad is a special kid and he deserves to be playing Division I football next year," Kozlowski said. We couldn't agree more.

Lane takes second in boys 2A

• CROSS COUNTRY

The 2A champion was Limestone's Nicole Benson who finished with a time of 16:37.

In the boys competition, the area was represented by one runner, but that runner did rather well.

Grayslake North's Nick Lane was the only other area runner to take All-State honors along with Olson.

Lane took fifth in the 2A race in 14:55 to lead all area boys entrants. In fact, he was the only area runner in any state competition from the Journals' coverage area.

Lane's pace of a 4:59 mile was just 12 seconds off of state champion Nick Holmes of Limestone High School. Lane also is the first boys runner in Grayslake North's history to medal at state.

Navy win over Notre Dame still big

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Standing shoulder to shoulder in the southeast corner of Notre Dame Stadium, the Midshipmen of Navy waited.

They waited for four quarters, their gold uniform buttons catching the Indiana sun and their battle cries traveling into the cool air. When regulation wasn't enough, the students with the close-cropped hair waited during an overtime period.

Then during another: And another.

But, really, what were a few more minutes when talking about ending a victory drought of 43 years?

Finally, when a swarm of Navy defenders corralled Travis Thomas short of the goal line, a stop that sealed a 46-44 three-overtime victory against Notre Dame Nov. 3, the Middies didn't have to wait any longer. Off came their white hats, dozens of which popped into the air like heated popcorn kernels. Down on the field, their football-playing classmates sang along with the alma mater and celebrated the first Navy win against the Irish since 1963.

"That ends the game," said Notre Dame's public address announcer to a crowd that was otherwise stone silent. "And the streak."

The Midshipmen and their fans continued to cheer like they had just won the Super Bowl. Or, better yet, like they had just beaten Army.

OK, so the more cynical among us might say that Navy's win didn't mean as much as it could have. The Irish, after all, dropped to 1-8 in a season that is making the Gerry Faust years look like the Golden Era.

Charlie Weis helped, too, passing up a chance to kick a 41-yard field goal late in the fourth quarter, a decision that resulted in overtime and Weis being booed by the student section as he walked off the field after the loss.

But those who want to

Kevin

believe that Navy's victory was nothing more than tomato can knockdown most likely didn't see the game, which was like gripping theater, regardless of the home team's recent struggles.

And they probably haven't been well schooled in the 81-year history of the series, which last featured a Navy win when Roger Staubach was logging time under center in Annapolis.

"It's a big win for the program, and it's a big win for the [Naval] Academy," said Navy coach Paul Johnson, who was a 6-year-old living in North Carolina in 1963. "I'm happy I don't have to answer anything about a streak every time we play."

So just how big was the win in the eyes of those at Navy? Well, classes at the Naval Academy have been canceled for Monday, a move that "almost never happens," Johnson said.

But the vacation will be well deserved for a team that probably won't get enough credit for this win as it should. While playing at Navy is an honor, it also means playing under a set of circumstances that put the Midshipmen at a disadvantage in almost every game they play. Because attending the Academy requires a service requirement in either the Navy or Marines after graduation, the team isn't exactly a magnet for NFL-bound talent. That translates into a lack of size that appeared shocking after viewing both teams side-by-side from field-level Nov. 3.

"Every team we play is going to be bigger, stronger and faster," said senior Reggie Campbell, who stands all of 5-foot-6 and 168 pounds. "That's something we know going into every game, but you're not going to just show up, intimidate and beat us."

Campbell made that intention clear during the game and especially in the third overtime, when he snuck down the sideline and caught a 25-yard pass from quarterback Kaipō-Noa Kaheaku-Enhada for a go-ahead touchdown on the series' first play. On the ensuing two-point conversion, Campbell outmuscled a defender and put the Irish down by eight points.

And although Notre Dame scored a touchdown and got a second two-point chance after a Navy pass interference penalty on the first attempt, the Midshipmen still held on for the drought-killing win. They gained 257 rushing yards during the game, having their way with an Irish defense that struggled to stop them.

For a player such as senior linebacker Matt Wimsatt, the significance of the win was not lost. His brother, Brad, also played for Navy and suffered through four years of "The Streak" before graduating without a win.

Now he has the ultimate family bragging right.

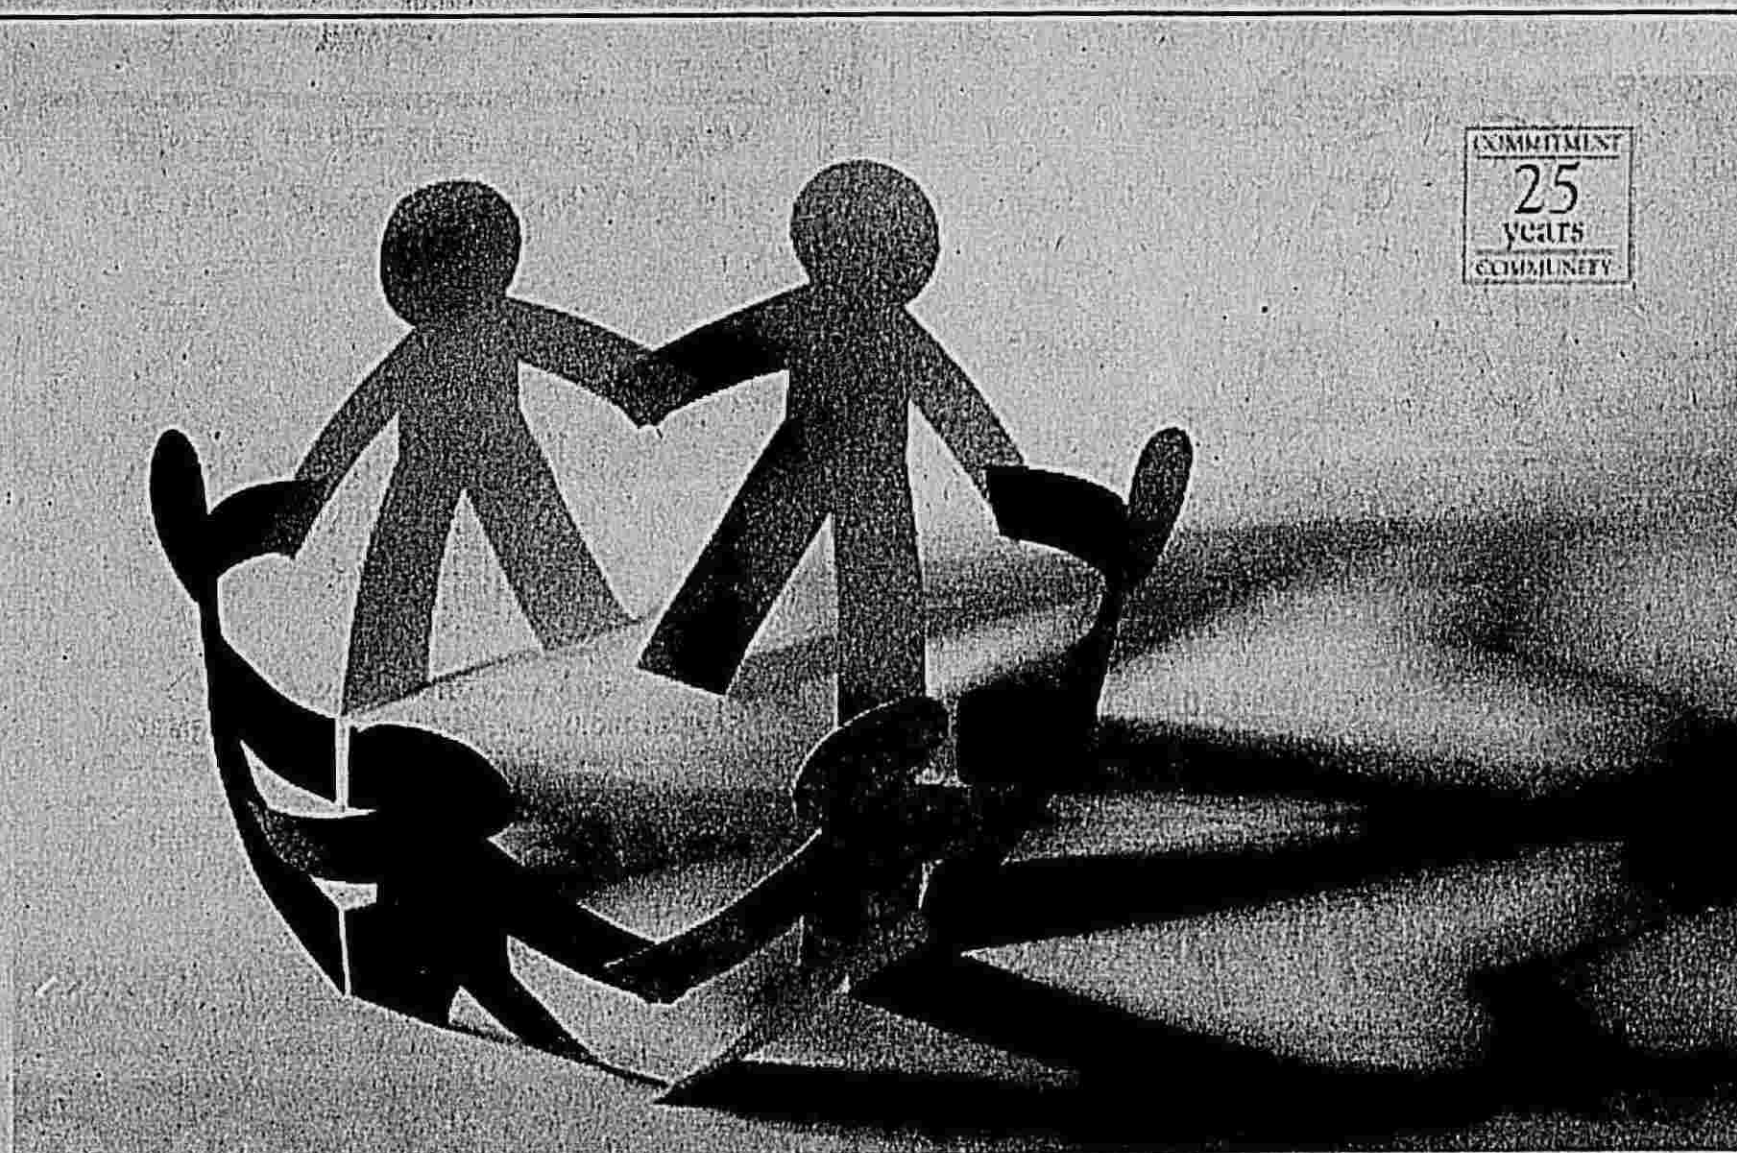

"I knew about [1963] long before I ever got here," Wimsatt said. "My brother played here and one of my goals coming into the Academy was to beat Notre Dame. [But] it honestly has not hit me yet ... I feel numb right now. There's no other way to explain it."

Say what you want about the state of Notre Dame football, this type of win doesn't happen every day.

Was it worth the wait?

"Definitely," Wimsatt said.

All Temp handles all your heating and air conditioning needs

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNE

With fall in the air, it's time to make sure your furnace is in good working order. So it's time to call All Temp, a successful heating and air conditioning company built on thousands of referrals from satisfied customers.

Sales Manager Rich Edwards said that the Mehrholz family has owned and operated the company for over 60 years. "All Temp is northwest Chicago's largest, oldest, and most awarded home comfort company."

Rich noted that All Temp has received top awards from manufacturers such as Trane, York, and Bryant. The company is also a member of the Better Business Bureau and recommended by Angie's List.

"It's important for the consumer to know who he's doing business with, and to select a local contractor," Edwards said. "All Temp services a 20 mile radius from its Wauconda office to make sure we can provide customers with the attention they deserve."

All Temp's 25 factory trained and certified service technicians are available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. The company services all makes and models of heating and cooling systems. A fully stocked warehouse and parts department can quickly handle any situation.

All Temp's 15 installation crews are experienced at handling jobs as small as humidifiers, and as large as in-floor heating and multi-zone forced-air systems in multi-million dollar homes.

The company carries furnaces and air conditioners by Lennox, York, Bryant, and Trane, as well as humidifiers, air cleaners, and dehumidifiers by Aprilaire, along with other quality products designed to provide 100% customer satisfaction. These products are on display at the company's Wauconda showroom on 124 East Liberty Street, just east of Main Street on Route 176.

Rich Edwards also said the company offers financing to qualified buyers: no money down, no payments, and no interest for 12 months. This, coupled with special

Deceptive mortgage ads: What they leave out

(NAPSA)-When shopping for a mortgage to buy a home or refinance an existing loan, you may see or hear ads with offers of low rates or payments.

While some of the offers can seem tempting, some are terribly flawed. They don't disclose the true terms of the deal as the law requires.

The Federal Trade Commission, the nation's consumer protection agency, wants you to know the buzzwords that should trigger follow-up questions, as well as information to insist on.

What the Ads Say

A Low "Fixed" Rate: Ads that tout a "fixed" rate may not tell you how long it will be "fixed." The rate may be fixed for an introductory period only, and that can be as short as 30 days.

Very Low Rates: Are the ads talking about a "payment" rate or the interest rate? The interest rate is the rate used to calculate the amount of interest you will owe the lender each month. The payment rate is the rate used to calculate the amount of the payment you are obligated to make each month. Some offers advertise a low payment rate without telling you that it applies only during an introductory period. If the payment rate is less than the interest rate, you won't cover the interest due. This is called "negative amortization." It means that your loan balance is actually increasing and the lender is adding the unpaid interest to the balance you owe.

Very Low Payment Amounts: Ads quoting a very low payment amount may be an interest-only (I/O) loan, where you pay only the amount of interest accrued each month. Eventually, you will have to pay off the principal or you may end up owing a lump sum due at the end of the loan.

Loan Amount $300,000-Pay Only $900 Per Month: Ads with "teaser" short-term rates or payments such as these don't often disclose that a rate or payment is for a very short introductory period.

Important Notice From Your Mortgage Company: Mailers that have information about your mortgage may not be from your lender at all. Before responding to any offer, review it carefully to make sure you know who you're dealing with.

What the Ads Don't Say

To make an informed decision about a mortgage offer, ask the lender:

- What is the Annual Percentage Rate? The APR is the total cost of the credit expressed as a yearly interest rate.

- When and how can my rate and payments change?

- What will my monthly payment be? Can it increase?

- Does the monthly payment include an escrow amount to pay for my property taxes and homeowners insurance?

- What is the term of the loan (for example, 15 years? 30 years?)

- Will I have to pay prepayment penalties to refinance and pay off the loan early?

SPF for windows: 99.9% UV protection

(NAPSA)-Today's homeowners expect windows to protect their home from Mother Nature, guarding against everything from hurricane winds to sunshine. Surprisingly, sunshine actually damages more furniture in one year than hurricanes. That's because UV rays from the sun cause irreversible fading and sun damage on everything from furniture, cabinets and carpet to wood, paint and artwork.

Typical window glass fails to protect home furnishings from damaging UV rays. But a new glass coating called ClimaGuard SPF from Guardian is proven to block 99.9 percent of the sun's spectrum that causes fading. Available now on any Hurd wood window or patio door, ClimaGuard SPF acts like sunscreen for the home.

The Fade Factor

The American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists developed a Fade Protection Factor-a test in which it measures how quickly furnishings fade from sunlight. The difference is dramatic. Clear glass windows with no UV blocking and a Fade Protection Factor (FPF) of 2 allow visible fading within one year. Low-E windows score an average FPF of 7, with fading damage commonly noticed in three years or less. But Hurd windows containing ClimaGuard SPF score an FPF of over 50, delaying noticeable UV-induced fading damage of typical household furnishings by 15 years or more.

"This is the perfect UV protection for your home," said Joe Herman, Hurd vice president of sales and marketing. "It blocks 99 percent of UV-A and UV-B rays. That's significantly better than any other coating on the market, plus it's invisible. You can't see it on the window nor does it affect the sunlight streaming in. This is simply the best UV protection for home interiors short of living without windows."

Available now in Hurd's entire wood and clad window line, ClimaGuard SPF also offers superior thermal protection to help manage home heating and/or cooling costs. With the new coating, Hurd is able to customize a home's window glass options. Homeowners can choose between eight options, selecting the specific glass coating that is best for each room according to its exposure to the sun, wind and other external elements. Whether UV protection, energy efficiency, impact or safety is the main concern, there's a Hurd window designed to offer the best option available.

We saved Dominic's life. Then we taught him how to save it himself.

"They saved my life. Now, I'm making the most of it."

— Dominic Sacramento, Lake Villa

In May of 1995, Dominic Sacramento had a heart attack that left him in critical condition. Fortunately, he came to the Emergency Room at Vista Medical Center East where the physicians and staff stabilized him and helped him recover. Eleven years later, a catheterization procedure at the hospital helped Dominic get back to work faster than he could have imagined. And after learning the importance of taking care of his health through our Cardiopulmonary Rehab Program, Dominic is now looking forward to beginning his rehab at Vista Surgery and Treatment Center in Lindenhurst. CLC Veterans Day Musical Salute and holiday concerts sold out

No tickets remain for the Veterans Day Musical Salute at the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts at the College of Lake County on Nov. 11. The concert will feature the 40 professional musicians from the Navy Band Great Lakes Wind Ensemble directed by Lt. Joseph Dolsak, USN, plus the CLC choral ensembles, directed by Dr. Charles Clency.

In addition, the holiday concert at CLC on Dec. 9 has already sold out. The concert includes music by the Choir of Lake County, the CLC Singers, the Gospel Choir and the Wind Ensemble.

The James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts at the College of Lake County serves as a cultural resource center for Lake County and surrounding areas by offering artistic events of the highest quality. For information and tickets on professional touring events at the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts and college performances in music, theatre and dance, call the Box Office at (847) 543-2300 or visit www.clcillinois.edu/tickets.

Jazz Sunday concert features trumpeter Chuck Findley

Los Angeles-based trumpeter Chuck Findley will be the featured guest soloist with the College of Lake County Monday Night Jazz Ensemble at a Jazz Sunday concert on Nov. 18 at 4 p.m. Findley is a respected studio musician who has performed with Branford Marsalis and the NBC "Tonight Show" band and the Buddy Rich Orchestra.

The Monday Night Jazz Ensemble, directed by Dr. Michael Flack, will join Findley in a program chosen from the following tunes: "The Song Is You," "Lush Life," "There Is No Greater Love," "Prelude To A Kiss," "Soon," "Spain," "Brotherhood of Man" and "Stardust." The Tuesday Night Jazz Ensemble, directed by Dave Hibbard, will also perform.

The son of a musician, Findley began playing the trumpet at age four. In 1969 he began a successful recording career in Los Angeles, and his expert trumpet playing can be heard in more than 400 albums by artists such as B.B. King, George Benson, Jackson Browne, Natalie Cole, Madonna, Barbra Streisand and Frank Sinatra. He has played in more than 200 movie soundtracks, including "Back to the Future," "Funny Lady," "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom," "Saturday Night Fever" and "Caddy Shack."

Findley was lead trumpet player for Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show" band, led by Doc Severinsen in 1989. He played with Branford Marsalis on the Emmy award winning "Tonight Show" with Jay Leno from May 1994 to June 2001. Findley travels abroad to do feature solo work, jazz festivals, albums, clinics, television specials and concert tours. He won a Grammy® Award with the GRP All-Star Big Band (headed by Dave Grusin) for the "All Blues" album in 1995 and received the National Academy for Recording Arts and Sciences "Most Valuable Player" award for six consecutive years.

The Nov. 18 concert will be held in the Mainstage Theatre of the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts on the CLC Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St. Tickets are $5 for the general public and $4 for CLC/seniors/children (price includes $1 JLC restoration fee). Tickets are available in person, by calling the Box Office at (847) 543-2300 or online at HYPERLINK "file:///www.clcillinois.edu/tickets" www.clcillinois.edu/tickets.

Coming up next by the Music Department: The CLC Concert Band will perform on Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m. The annual CLC Holiday Concert on Dec. 9 at 4 p.m. is sold out.

CLC Holiday Sale features art by local artists

Unique holiday gift ideas for art lovers will abound at the College of Lake County's Annual Holiday Art Sale, which will be held earlier than usual this year, from Nov. 17-20. The juried sale will feature original art by 30 different Illinois artists, including hand-made jewelry, wearable art, ceramics, wood and glass sculpture, gourds and wonderful smelling hand-made soaps and candles.

"This year we are excited to have a new group of artists joining us from Nicasa's Women of Worth. These local women, who are in treatment and recovery programs at Nicasa (Northern Illinois Council on Alcohol and Substance Abuse) are hand crafting beautiful jewelry using Kazuri beads from Kenya," said Christina Rasmussen, community exhibits center assistant.

"Kazuri means 'small and beautiful' in Swahili. These handmade beads are created outside of Nairobi on the former coffee plantation of Karen Blixen (of 'Out of Africa' fame) by women who most often are the sole providers for their families. The workshop enables women to find a way out of living in poverty. It is truly a beautiful global support circle of women helping women."

Lake Bluff artist Carole Floate has been a woodturner for 13 years. She will be selling a variety of items handcrafted from local varieties of wood, some of which she gets from local tree trimmers. Floate uses a lathe to create handcrafted items such as bowls, vessels and platters of all sizes, uniquely shaped bottle toppers for the wine lover, fountain pens, toy tops, letter openers, magnifying glasses, desk accessories and beaded jewelry.

Floate says that women account for only about 10 percent of woodturners or furniture makers, but that their ranks are growing.

"We're starting to come out of the woodwork," she said, without realizing her pun.

Floate has taught wood-turning classes throughout the area, is a member of wood-turner's organizations in the Illinois and Wisconsin and has been active in an organization called Collectors of Wood Art. Her worldwide connections with that group have resulted in visits from wood turners from Germany and Canada. Floate has exhibited and sold her work in Illinois galleries from Springfield to the Chicago area.

The Holiday Art Sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Nov. 17, from 1-5 p.m. Nov.

18 and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Nov. 19 and 20. It will be held in the Atrium located outside the Robert T. Wright Community Gallery of Art in the Library/Learning Resource Center at CLC's Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St. Parking is available in lots two through six, and visitors should enter through the C Wing. For more information, contact Christina Rasmussen at (847) 543-2405 or via e-mail crasmussen@clcillinois.edu.

The Holiday Art Sale is sponsored by the CLC Foundation and proceeds help fund student scholarships.

We are a quiet community of neighborhoods in the city of McHenry. Located near the intersection of Bull Valley and Crystal Lake Roads, it seems a world away from the bustling growth that is transforming southern McHenry County into one of the region's most preferred destinations. Yet it's just minutes away from everything that has made the area so desirable. The abundance of shopping. The broad range of community events. The incomparable recreational opportunities. All things considered, it's simply one great place to live.

NOTICES

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
This is to inform you that there is a possibility you may be contacted by someone trying to scam you. The scammers use plays such as offering to pay you a "processing fee" for depositing checks and sending a percentage back to them. These checks are FAKE and YOU will be held liable for repaying the funds to the bank.

Typically the scammers will contact you via email or via a phone relay system for the hearing impaired so you don't know where they are calling from or what they sound like.

Recently arrests were made in the Netherlands, Nigeria & Canada with fake checks worth more than $2.1 billion dollars. The average victim of this scam loses $3000 to $4000.

Please Be Cautious.
For information on how to report a scam go to: <http://www.ftc.gov/>

This is the Internet Crime Complaint Center and is a partnership between the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and the National White Collar Crime Center.

Avoiding lemons in the used-car market

(NAPSA)-No matter what year, make or model, a vehicle is one of the most significant investments a consumer makes. Often, an automobile purchase represents a considerable portion of the buyer's savings, and for those with jobs that require the use of a car-like a pizza-delivery person or regional sales manager-a vehicle may be directly tied to future income.

When buying a used car, individuals forgo the luxury of a factory warranty and take their chances in a market where costs are lower but risks are higher. Fortunately, knowing how to recognize dependable vehicles helps shoppers feel more confident through the purchase process and when on the road.

According to recent Bureau of Transportation statistics, Americans purchased more than 42 million used vehicles in 2004. In fact, 85 percent of car sales are used vehicles. This is not surprising considering how much drivers can save by purchasing used. For example, the manufacturer's suggested retail price (MSRP) listed in Kelley Blue Book for a 2006 Ford Taurus is $21,515, compared to a similarly equipped used 2004 model at $11,600. That is nearly 10 thousand dollars thrifty shoppers keep in their pockets. On the other hand, if the used car is in poor condition, it may require expensive repairs that completely outweigh any initial savings.

In addition to having a used car checked out by a mechanic, here are several tips to better your odds for a good pick. Firstly, bring a soft refrigerator magnet with you to check for old damage hidden beneath new paint. Run the magnet along steel panels like doors and fenders. If the magnet doesn't "stick," there is most likely body filler below the paint. Inside the car, check for water stains and dried mud on the carpet. A flood-damaged car could be big trouble down the road. Wear on the gas and brake pedals should be consistent with the mileage claimed on the odometer. Low-mileage vehicles should have little wear on the pedals. Wear on the outer edges of the front tires usually indicates that the car is out of alignment and/or has worn-out components.

Once you make the right purchase, one of the first steps you should take is to ensure the fuel system is clean. Since you don't know what type of fuel the previous owner used, you don't know what condition your fuel system is in. Deposit buildup on fuel injectors, intake valves and combustion chambers can rob engines of power and performance. Tankful after tankful of lower-quality fuel contribute to this problem. Use a fuel-system cleaner such as Techron(r) Concentrate Plus, which is designed to eliminate engine deposits, maximize performance and restore fuel economy. Your new purchase should be clean on the inside along with the outside.

You can visit Web resources such as www.usedautotips.com for more strategies on what to look for when shopping for used cars. When you understand what to look for in a vehicle, you can purchase with confidence and drive home with peace of mind.

Curves for Women fighting local hunger

Curves for Women in Grayslake will host its third annual Thanksgiving dinner and coat drive for those in the Grayslake community who do not have the means to provide a Thanksgiving dinner or a warm winter coat for their children.

The event will take place Saturday, Nov. 17 from 1 to 3 p.m. at Curves for Women, 100 S. Atkinson Road, at the southwest corner of Atkinson Road and Center Street, Grayslake. Curves members will prepare and serve the dinner as well as donate and distribute the winter coats for the families in attendance.

The Grayslake Curves has partnered with local food banks to stock their shelves at least once every year. Anyone is welcome to drop off canned goods and other nonperishable food items anytime during the year.

Area food pantries supported by the Grayslake Curves and its members are Avon Township and PLAN, People Lending Assistance Network, Grayslake.

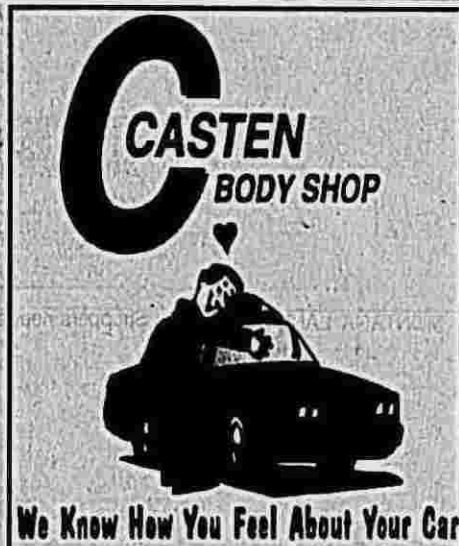

According to PLAN Food Pantry Director Michael Pimpo, more than 49,000 people in Lake County live below the poverty line, with one of 10 Illinois residents struggling to provide for themselves regular access to enough safe, nutritious food for an active and healthy life. Thirty-five percent of the members of households served by PLAN are families who have children under 18 years old. The PLAN pantry has provided food assistance to more than 4,000 individuals in households since June of 2007.

The coat drive is another need for the community, Cynthia Smith notes. "We have teachers as members of the Grayslake Curves who tell stories of children who come to school without a coat. Our goal is fill their day with cheer, a Thanksgiving meal and a warm coat for winter. It's the least we can do," Smith says.

Curves for Women is a 30-minute weight loss and fitness center for women providing aerobics, strength training and stretching in a fun, fast and safe environment. Contact the Grayslake Curves at 847-543-9922.
